

2 PREVALENCE OF DIVORCE.

Great Church Campaign is Planned Against It.

Rev. W. H. Roberts, D.D., is Out in an Appeal.

Conscience of Christian Humanity to be Aroused.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—The Inter-church Conference on Marriage and Divorce, a body representing officially fourteen leading denominations, has issued through its secretary, Rev. William H. Roberts, D.D., an appeal to the public, calling attention to several aspects of the divorce question.

The paper is the beginning of a national campaign of education on the subject, to be followed by efforts to secure the enactment of laws in the State Legislatures; and ultimately, it is thought, of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States. Already action has been taken by the conference looking toward the prevention of remarriage by ministers of other communions of divorcees, whom clergymen of their own faith have refused to marry.

This movement is the first凝聚 of any sort upon which the representatives of the great denominations have officially come together. The members of the conference include many of the most eminent ecclesiastics and laymen in the churches. Dr. Roberts said in part:

"Before any civil legislation can be enacted which will be operative, and quite apart from the accord which we are seeking to secure in the marriage regulations of the Christian churches must come the leavening of the minds of men and women which will lift them toward a recognition of the noblest dignities of life.

"We plead for a recognition of the sanctity of marriage. We are facing a condition in our country today which threatens danger to the most sacred things. The very sanctuary of human life and of human love assaulted and profaned. Womanhood, manhood, and childhood, the home and the family are involved, and neither civil legislation nor ecclesiastical discipline can save them until the conscience of Christian humanity is reached. Behind the monster of polygamy, behind the spectacle of the divorce court, with its collusions, its corruptions and its lawlessness, stands the sad fact of the nobility of marriage.

"Marriage is a holy thing. Marriage is the institution of God Himself, and is sanctioned under the solemnities of the old sanction by our blessed Lord. This is the root of the matter. Reformation must begin here. Children must be taught it. Young men and young women must be made to feel it. Protected in purity, boy and girl, man and woman, alike must be trained to look with reverent eyes upon the holiness of this estate and upon its mysteriousness as something higher and deeper and larger than can be measured or reached by the low ideas of convenience, of worldly advantage, of the gratification of passion, — by the light and easy estimate of the consent of the passing personal fancy and the mutual recognition of the civil contract.

"The hope of curing and crushing the horrible tendencies to frequent divorce rests, we believe, upon impressing and inculcating such intense conviction of what marriage means, that it will cease to be entered into, unadvisedly or lightly; that the festivity which accompanies it shall be sobered and consecrated by the conscious presence of Him who adorned and beautified the marriage at Cana, in Galilee. By His presence, and the first miracle that He wrought that neither man nor woman shall dare to enter the precincts of betrothal without the tested certainty of love, with the full recognition of the mutual duty of servitude.

MONEY UP FOR RAILROAD.

Expo Gets Concession for Extension of Imperial Line to Lower California.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

AUSTIN (Tex.) May 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] J. A. Naugle, assistant general manager of the Sonora branch of the Southern Pacific, and a personal representative of the Harriman interests in Mexico, has just obtained from the Mexican government a concession for the construction and operation of an extension of the Imperial Railroad from Calexico, Lower California, south through that peninsula for six miles, and from the town of Mexicali, Lower California, southwest to the town of Ensenada, near the southern extremity of the peninsula, a distance of nearly three hundred miles.

Naugle, on behalf of the Southern Pacific interests, has made a deposit of $1200 with the Mexican government, as a guarantee that the terms of the concession will be complied with. The Imperial Railroad now connects with the main line of the Southern Pacific at Old Beach, Cal. It runs south from that point into Lower California for forty miles. Naugle says that the railroad will be built immediately.

NEWCHWANG, May 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Russians have abandoned Newchwang. Yesterday, most of the Russian troops retired to Tashkian. The evacuation was conducted secretly, and during the night the Russian guns were removed from the forts and sent to Liao Yang, where all Russian forces are being concentrated.

BUILDING MORE FORTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SHANGHAI, May 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports from Peking state that the Russians are probably preparing to occupy the Chinese railway between Kaopanze and Sianmining. The Russians are building forts on both sides of the Liao River, near Sianmining.

RUSSIAN CALCULATIONS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It has been calculated that the Japanese forces in the Yalu combat included 75,000 men, 16,000 horses and 150 cannon.

It is understood that Gen. Kodama, chief of the Japanese staff, will cross the Yalu, concentrating the movement of two armies upon Mukden. Yinkow will have to be evacuated, and thereby the Russians will lose their touch with the Chinese, which is significant, and of political importance.

ST. PETERSBURG DENIAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] LONDON, May 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All news received this morning shows how the Japanese army continues its victorious advance. Friday, Feng Wang Cheng was occupied, and Dalny was invested Saturday. But the telegrams are not explicit on the important point of the fighting before the former place was taken. However, as the Russians were threatened in the rear and on the flank, it is not probable they delivered a great battle.

FOR ALL PRACTICAL PURPOSES, the Japanese control the whole area south of a line drawn from Newchwang to Feng Wang Cheng, including all of the Liao Tung Peninsula except Port Arthur. The military correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, commenting on the situation, says:

"Evidently it is an effective pursuit of a thoroughly-beaten army that is going on. The cavalry, well ahead of the infantry, has defeated the Russians on the road to Sia Yen, and at Haicheng and Liao Chang. This, no doubt, will be a greater surprise than the previous successes of the Japanese. Evidently the Russian cavalry in Manchuria is not now so quick as the Japanese. This is not difficult to account for, at all. The fast pace at which the harder horse can move depends on the way in which he is looked after. The unfortunate Russian horses have not been getting hardly any food in Korea, while the Japanese horses have been fully fed. Moreover, while the Japanese horses were not pushed forward in strength till the roads and fields had been improved, the Cossack horses were for nearly three months on their slender rations struggling with impossible fields and roads.

Disaster crowds on disaster for the Russians. Outbreaks of disease have become epidemic in Mukden, and, despite the seriousness of the aspect of the campaign, the combatting of those dread enemies, typhus, dysentery and smallpox, has to occupy first place in the anxieties of Russian authorities, so that it has been necessary to send for 100 additional doctors."

PREPARING SECOND FLEET.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Admiral Skrydin is going to Vladivostok. Renewed energy is being expended on the preparation of the second Pacific squadron, which will consist of eleven ironclads and seventeen cruisers. According to the project, the fleet will take the ice, forbearance and faithfulness which it involves.

"What words can we find to express the abhorrence which ought to rise in righteous indignation against the present possibilities and the existing facts of the divorce habit in America? Just now polygamous Utah looks large and ugly in our minds. But we must look nearer home to realize the true condition of things. The proportion of divorces to marriages in 1902 in eight States reporting statistics is as follows: In Maine, 1 to 6; in New Hampshire, 1 to 6; in Vermont, 1 to 6; in Massachusetts, 1 to 6; in Rhode Island, 1 to 6; in Ohio, 1 to 6; in Indiana, 1 to 6; in Michigan, 1 to 11. In these States there has been a steady and rapid increase in the divorces during the decade, and this increase is believed to be true of the country at large."

"The fear of legalized polygamy in one State is enhanced by the fact of unhappy divorce in many States."

The following churches are represented in the conference: Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States; Presbyterian Church in the United States; Methodist Episcopal Church; Methodist Church, South; Reformed Church in America; United Presbyterian Church; Evangelical Lutheran Church; the Congregational churches; the Universalist churches; the Reformed Church; the Cumberland Presbyterian Church; the Alliance of the Reformed churches holding the Presbyterian church.

ATTEMPT ON RAILROAD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HARBIN, April 17 [Delayed in transmission].—The large scale on which the Japanese have been secretly penetrating Manchuria for the purpose of destroying the railway is revealed in the confession of a Japanese major and captain who were captured by Russian border guards. In all, 100 officers of the Japanese General Staff and 200 men left the points where the railroad crosses the river. If they failed to reach these points, they were to destroy the railway at any other place.

The Major and captain captured belonged to the 1st Division of the Japanese, the other three being Chinese coolies. By a lucky chance they were sighted by the border guards near the station of Tsoochir. They were soon dodging among the hills, and were pursued and two were captured. The prisoners were dressed in Mongolian costumes. The prisoners were brought here, where they stated that they had been attached to the Japanese Legation at Peking.

FALSE WOOR HER BONANZA.

London Widow Waxes Rich by Being Jilted.

"Breach of Promise" Cigars Pile up Fortune.

Said to Have Many Offers of Marriage.

(STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES)

LONDON, April 26.—"Bevare of widers!" The wisdom of that memorable piece of advice given by the elder Weller to his son, is strikingly exemplified in the story that is behind the display made in the window of a famous tobacconist's shop in Shaftesbury avenue of a huge jam pot, around which a big artificial fly is buzzing, together with "Breach of Promise Cigars," which at present are selling like the proverbial hot cakes, at six pence each.

The proprietor of the shop, Mrs. Georgia Ada Frasier, is a widow. The jam pot typifies herself. The fly stands for the man from whom she obtained $3000, the other day for breach of promise. The particular application of the can, however, is its reference to a legend which was read in court, wherein the victim of her ripe charms had likened himself to "a fly buzzing about a jam pot and occasionally getting a bit." The cigars at present each represent the price which the woman exacted. The odds are expected to pay for H. Evidently, Frasier's wits have been considerably sharpened by over forty years' experience of life's joys and sorrows. And though age has ripened, it has not diminished her beauty.

FLY GOES FOR JAM.

The story of the idyl which terminated so unfortunately is almost as follows: the means by which Mrs. Frasier has so recently made still more money out of it. To begin with, it was in the unsympathetic guise of rent collector that James Outbridge Spindelow first entered Mrs. Frasier's shop—and to use his own expression—began buzzing around the "jam pot." As a mere, ordinary, everyday rent collector Mr. Spindelow would have received nothing but a warm welcome from the widow. But as he speedily disclosed to her, he was an individual of much greater importance. He is a member of the parochial "Pooh Bah." In his own person he united the functions of parish constable, sexton, verger, vestry messenger, sub-inspector of nuisances, Coroners' officer, licensing clerk and Clerk to an important society of scholars. Probably, however, was more than this dazzling array of offices inclined Mrs. Frasier to encourage his "buzzing," was his statement that his income from these various sources amounted to considerably over $5000 a year.

Spindelow acknowledged that there existed an impediment to speedy marriage in the shape of a wife, Mrs. Frasier he told her that he could get rid of his wife by means of a divorce, but that the process, of course, might give offense to the church people, and especially the vicar, on whose good graces he was dependent for some of his numerous commissions. Besides, his wife was sickly and likely to be removed, with compensation almost any time. The widow concluded that $5000 a year was worth waiting for. As a pledge of good faith, to be redeemed when nature had removed the last obstacle, Spindelow went through the form of mock marriage with her, and drew up this extraordinary document:

PEAK DECLARATION.

"I, James Outbridge Spindelow, do take oath that I love you, Georgia, and no other that I love you more, and devotedly and no other, and that I shall be kind and loving to you always, sharing with you your joys and sorrows, and shall keep to you and you only so long as we both shall live."

That was in 1898. Mrs. Spindelow did not die until three years later, and then the fly had so pertinaciously buzzed around the "jam pot" all this time, began to right shy of it. Finally, says Mrs. Frasier, he told her that she might shoot him if she liked, but never would he marry her.

But a widow of forty never seeks solace in gore for blighted affections when the man in the case is worth $5000 a year, and the inevitable orifice of procreation suit followed, after Mr. Spindelow had married somebody else. Perhaps it was the belief that Henry Fielding Dickens, as the son of the great novelist, must be possessed of a hereditary talent for the ways and wiles of artful widows which induced Mr. Spindelow to place his defense in the hands of that clever King's Counsel. It availed him nothing, however. The widow was good looking, and the jury, uncomprehendingly, with an eye seemingly to possible future contingencies, she had faithfully preserved all his letters.

"I want to be your silly little baby and spoilt darling," cried out the lover. Spindelow in one massive, in another he sent Mrs. Frasier "forty million kisses."

"What puzzles me," remarked the judge, "is that anybody should keep such rubbish."

"I always keep my letters," replied Mrs. Frasier, innocently.

"Yet you wanted your letters burned," inquired Mr. Dickens.

"Yes, because Mr. Spindelow left them lying about on the office table," said the widow, red-faced and widow, with a coy glance at the judge.

He did not take the jury long to assess the damage to the widow's affections at $3000. Assuming that Mr. Spindelow personally deserved only 5 per cent. of the forty million kisses, he would have to pay $1500. This works out at about a cent for every 125 ejaculations which she failed to receive. On figuring it the other way about, he was taxed at the rate of one cent for each six and two-thirds of a kiss, which he found considerably more high one. Mrs. Frasier is reported to have received twenty-nine offers of marriage since she won her case. But for the present she prefers to devote her attention to business at the sign of the "Jam Pot and the Fly." It is fast making her rich.

Overstayed His Dream.

"I had a great dream the other night. I dreamed I met a man who offered to cut me a pound slice of radish."

"Yes, it's worth more'n a million an ounce!"

"That's right. 'Want a slice?' he said to me. 'Yes, I answered him. But I was too grasping.'

"How was that?"

"I woke up just as I asked him to, as it ticked." (Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Blind Pigs Caught.

Two blind pigs that have successfully eluded the vigilance of the police were caught yesterday by Capt. Able and Officer Boyd. Juan Verna and Felix Merla, proprietors of the Europa and Halloran, respectively, were arrested for violating the liquor ordinances but were subsequently released on bail of $100, each. The resorts kept by the two Italians have been placed at the disposal of the police for many months, but have not succeeded in making cases against them. Yesterday, however, they were caught with the goods on tap.

Tyndall Lecture.

Dr. Alexander J. McIvor Tyndall's lecture on "Clairvoyance and Mediumship" attracted a large audience to Blanchard's Hall yesterday afternoon. The speaker dealt with his subject according to the latest developments of science, proving his hypothesis that all manifestations of life come from the same source, and differ only in the matter of vibratory motion. He called attention to the fact that in the color spectrum there are many shades of color above the visible spectrum to ordinary vision. Clairvoyance he designated as the visual sense of the soul which vibrates to finer key than do the physical senses, and therefore perceives that which is invisible to the ordinary eye. He distinguished from clairvoyance the essential that the latter is positive and the former negative. Interesting psychic demonstrations followed the lecture.

McCabe and Murphy.

As the last notes of the deep, rich voice of Bishop McCabe died away at Blanchard's Hall last night where the Francis Murphy meeting was being held, a score of men walked forward to take the platform at the culmination of an evening of spirited talk against "rum and sin" and eloquent appeals for abstinence. "Would you believe and Jesus receive," said the Bishop, and the response was gratifying. In his address Bishop McCabe said: "I will take every dollar I can get of the rum fellow's money—money which buys unhappiness."

He took occasion to pay Francis Murphy high compliment by telling him he was better than any theater. Francis Murphy made a strong argument that Los Angeles should have one of the Methodist bishops. "For is not Los Angeles next door to heaven?" he asked. Others who spoke were Dr. Oldham of Columbus, O.; Dr. McLean of Lebanon, O., who is the president of the General Temperance Union.
